

Sequence of Play

One game turn = six months. Eight turns, October 1791 to September 1795. Each step is completed by the Government, then by every Current in turn order, before moving on to the next step.

Initial Phase

Step	What happens	Rules
1. Negotiations • Only moment for private talks.	Free discussion, open or private, 10 to 15 minutes. Alliances are never binding. Currents may give assignats to each other at any time, never to the Government (except under the Fatherland in Danger law, 13.6). The Royalist can never ally with the Mountain or the Sans-Culottes.	6.1
2. Random Events	The player controlling the Government rolls 2d6 on each of the four tables of the current regime: Economy, Politics, Counter-Revolution, Paris Commune, applying the table modifiers. An impossible or contradictory result is ignored, with no reroll. Skip the Commune table while Paris is held by Royalist/Allied armies.	6.2, 9.7.1
3. Turn Order	Government first. Then Currents by Fame + controlled regions (tie: higher Fame, then a die roll). Set the markers on the Turn Order track.	6.3
4. Objectives • Success +1 Fame, failure -1.	Government, then each Current, declares one precise objective (a target or a region); Currents may declare a joint one. If another Current takes the Government, its objective is ignored. A failed Government objective costs -1 to the Government and to its controlling Current.	6.4
5. Personality Placement	In turn order, place all your Personalities on regions. You need one in Paris if you control the Government, one in Paris to persuade deputies, and one in a region to act there.	6.5

Action Phase

Step	What happens	Rules
6. Personality Actions • Costs x2 at Economy II, x3 at III.	Arrests (Government), removals (Currents not officially present), then persuasions. Pay N times the cost for N rolls, keep one (Personality and Regional actions only). Double 1: Fame -1. Double 6: Fame +1. These actions need no Personality of your own.	7.1-7.3
7. Regional Actions	In this order: plots, then revolts, then revolt suppressions, then Commune raise / suppress. +2 per influential Personality in the region. Each Personality performs at most one action per turn.	7.4
8. Political Phase	Check regime change and elections. Persuade deputies (Legislative, Thermidor, Directorate, First Republic). King's action (Legislative). Propose and vote laws.	7.5

Patriots' Phase

Step	What happens	Rules
9. Justice	Judge every imprisoned Personality according to the regime. Louis XVI is not judged here: his trial is proposed as a law in step 8.	8.1, 11.4
10. Debates	Vote of confidence where the regime allows it (Legislative; Mercy, Directorate, First Republic). Then return every switched deputy to its original Current.	8.2-8.3

Military Phase

Step	What happens	Rules
11. Reinforcements • Unpaid regular army = bankruptcy.	Coalition, then Catholic & Royal armies (placed by the Royalist), then Government. Maintenance: 100 per army, paid by the Government (revolutionary) or the Royalist (Catholic & Royal). Unpaid volunteers go first.	9.3-9.4
12. Movement	Coups first (Open scenario). Then Allied, Catholic & Royal, then Revolutionary armies. Enemy armies may pin revolutionary armies in their region.	9.5, 12
13. Combat	One 2d6 roll per contested region on the 13-14 column; the side with more armies attacks (tie: revolutionary) and adjusts the roll by 1 per extra army. Then military control, kidnapping of the King.	9.6-9.7

Interphase

Step	What happens	Rules
14. Economy • Spent this turn counter.	Economy +1 per full 1000 assignats spent during the turn. Then set the counter back to 0.	10.1
15. Income	Currents: income of controlled regions (minimum 100 + 50 per Personality); the Royalist also gets 50 / 150 / 100 by Coalition level. Government: returns all its money, then receives 2500 minus regions in revolt, Coalition-held or under a Catholic army (minimum 500).	10.2
16. Fame Adjustment • Then advance the Turn marker.	Objectives: +1 if achieved, -1 otherwise. Fled Personalities, placed on the Chronology track, come back at the start of their turn.	10.3
